

ANICKA'S PICK

What's Rose Gold and Happy?

Give a T Smile pendant, make spirits bright.

By Anicka Quin // November 27, 2015

When Francesca Amfitheatrof became design director of Tiffany in 2013, she became the first woman to take on that role in the company's 177-year history—and it didn't take long for her to create a new signature look for the brand. The T series—reflecting the company's name in designs that manage to feel both modern and historic, almost Art Deco in style—has quickly become iconic, and there are more than a few fan favourites in this office. (When our sales director retired after 30-plus years with the company, her team bought her a T ring inscribed with one of her expressions, "Luv & Luck.")

Whenever I wear my T Smile pendant I get compliments—there's something about wearing a smile around your neck that makes spirits bright, it seems. I do love my gold version, but there's something about the rose gold that's even warmer—smilier?—and in my opinion, it would make the perfect splurge gift this season.

Tiffany T Smile pendant in 18 karat rose gold, $1,250, available at tiffany.ca

