Between Mountains

When my back first spasmed and completely took me out last Tuesday, the thought immediately following "what the hell is happening to me?" was "what if I can't go to the Araxi Longtable Dinner?!?" That is how excited I was for this experience, and I'm so happy that with the help of my physio and Emaan, one of my best friends who basically made sure I stayed in one piece all weekend on top of being great company, I was able to make it! It was absolutely worth the effort and to describe the whole experience (from the dinner itself set in the most magical place to our stay at Nita Lake Lodge) as special would be a major understatement. Click through to take in the full experience!

We had the beautiful Nita Lake Lodge as our retreat over the whole weekend - I would stay there again in a heartbeat. Tucked away across from Creekside right next to Nita Lake, the lodge is such a luxurious, cozy getaway. I love that it's the perfect destination for summer (with paddle board, kayak and canoe rentals available free of charge to explore the lakes, plus tons of paths through the stunning forest to meander along) and for winter - I can't think of anywhere I'd rather be when the snow starts coming down than cozied up in one of the lodge's many hot tubs. On top of the incredible Araxi long table experience, we also had amazing food at Nita, from cocktails and snacks at the Cure lounge to a truly great brunch at Aura Sunday morning.
