

Romancing Canada

JIM BYERS

Special to Postmedia Network

There is no shortage of great places for Canadians to spend Valentine's Day without crossing the border. Here are a few ideas:

VANCOUVER

The Opus Hotel (vancouver.opushotel.com/) is a lively spot in happening Yaletown, with a sleek bar and beautiful people.

Suites are colourful, bold and spacious.

For dinner, you can't get much prettier — or tastier — than Ancora Waterfront Dining & Patio, tucked under the Granville Bridge with fabulous water views.

Plenty of Valentine's Day inspiration in our own backyard

Settle into a room at the Post Inn in Lake Louise and watch the snow gather around the cozy romantic cottages. There is plenty of romance to be found during a Canadian winter. Spend an afternoon snowshoeing or dogsledding, inset, then cuddle up before a fire afterward.

JIM BYERS PHOTO

hawksworth communications

OPUS HOTEL
TORONTO SUN, FEBRUARY 10, 2016